PRESIDENT'S PERSPECTIVE:

PRESIDENT FREELAND HAS SET THE SECOND TIER OF THE NATIONAL COLLEGE RANKINGS AS THE SCHOOL'S TOP PRIORITY OVER THE NEXT 10 YEARS.

"I AM ALWAYS A LITTLE UNCOMFORTABLE IN DISCUSSIONS OF RANKING," FREELAND SAID. IN THE PAST HE REASONED THAT RANKING SYSTEMS AREN'T AN ACCURATE DEPICTION OF A SCHOOL'S QUALITY, BUT NOW UNDERSTANDS THEY ARE IMPORTANT TO THE UNIVERSITY'S PERCEPTION.

Dear Class of 2001:

As graduates at the dawn of a new century, you hold a special place in Northeastern's remarkable history. With pride and pleasure, on behalf of the faculty and trustees, I congratulate you on reaching this milestone in your life and wish you every success on the journey that lies ahead.

As you leave Northeastern, I hope you see your time here as the beginning of your learning, not the end. There will always be more to know, deeper levels of understanding and higher levels of performance to attain. Keep growing and searching for knowledge, because to stop learning is, in a real sense, to stop living.

I hope you will seek wisdom and compassion even as you pursue knowledge and skill. As you discover, make use of your discoveries. As you learn, teach. As you succeed, share. What you have acquired during your years here can make your community—and all the world—a better place.

I hope, too, that you will keep a place in your heart for Northeastern. You have earned a permanent place among us. We want to be a continuing part of your life and your growth. You are joining generations of graduates, linked to one another throughout the past century. With you now in the vanguard, this University, this family of Northeastern, will flourish anew in the years to come.

Sincerely,

Richard M. Freeland
President

Enjoying the last days of his presidency, President Clinton walked out onto the makeshift stage at Matthews Arena Thursday night, soaking in the expected praise. He grinned, his signature smile, clapped his hands, and looked up at the ceiling as if to simply say "wow."

Ignoring the cold wait outside and the roughly two-hour delay of the main event, the crowd shook the arena, making it quite clear to everyone why the president wanted to thank Boston and Massachusetts - they'll support him no matter what.

"In election after election, in good times and bad, the one place that I knew would always be there to stick with Bill Clinton and Al Gore on the direction we were taking America was Boston and the state of Massachusetts," Clinton said in explaining why he chose to visit Boston.

In a brief farewell tour before he leaves office on Jan. 20, Clinton visited Chicago and East Lansing, Mich., last week and New Hampshire Thursday afternoon before his Boston visit.

Basking in the adoration of mostly Northeastern students and standing before the words "America: Prosperity, Progress, Promise," President Clinton talked at length about his accomplishments in an obvious attempt to mold his legacy.

"Eight years ago, when I came here, 10 million Americans were out of work. The deficit was $290 billion, and rising. The debt of the country had quadrupled in the previous 12 years, imposing a crushing burden on our children. Welfare rolls, crime rates, drug abuse, teen pregnancy, income inequality were all going up. What a difference eight years can make."

Clinton discussed his focus on law enforcement, with the addition of 130,000 cops on the street, community reinvestment, doubling the government's investment in education, cleaning the environment, raising the minimum wage, passing the Family Medical Leave Law and creation of the Americorps volunteer program, among other issues.

He also discussed increasing student financial aid for college students with the Hope Scholarship tax credit and Lifetime Learning tax credit.

"The Direct Loan Program has saved students $9 billion in college loan costs. If your school is in it anywhere in America, the average $10,000 loan is $1,300 cheaper for an American student to pay off than it was when we took office," Clinton said.

Clinton frequently had to pause for applause during his 25-minute speech.

All of these accomplishments, Clinton said, mean that the future of the country is very bright. "[W]hen I walk out of the White House at high noon on January 20th, I want you to know something: I will leave more optimistic than I entered. I will be more idealistic than I was the day I first took the oath of office as President."

He also spoke highly of Northeastern, just as he did in his 1993 commencement speech.

"This is a great American urban institution of Community Bids Farewell to Clinton opportunity," he said.

But it was his sincere thanks that moved the estimated 7,000-plus crowd to its feet at the end of his speech.

"I hope you'll never forget these eight years; I hope you'll always be proud of the support you gave me," Clinton said.

"The greatest gift you could ever give me is to never lose the fervor I sense in this room tonight; never lose the belief in your country; never lose the belief in your capacity to change it for the better; and never get tired when you don't win every election. Bear down, look forward. The best is still out there. I will always love Massachusetts. Thank you."

President Richard M. Freeland was the first to speak, though he had little success with the crowd. After leading a "Welcome back, Mr. President" chant, Freeland encouraged the crowd to say "Thank You, Mr. President," after a series of issues.

On each successive try, less and less of the crowd responded. On the last issue, Freeland introduced it by "and finally," and the crowd roared with cheers.

Congressman Michael Capuano and Mayor Thomas Menino also spoke, but it was Senator Edward Kennedy's introduction which elicited the greatest response.

Kennedy reminded the crowd that this is the first time in 26 years that Clinton's name is not on an election ballot, and is not allowed to run again for president, because of the 22nd Amendment, which limits a president to two terms.

"I think we in Congress let you down by not repealing the 22nd amendment," Kennedy said, blaming the amendment on Republicans who despised another great democratic president," Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

A LOOK CLOSER

by Eric Creamer

The men's soccer team had another outstanding year under second year coach Ed Matz. The Huskies won their first ever regular season America East championship after posting a 7-2 conference record and a 10-8 overall record. The Huskies lost in the America East semifinals to Hofstra 1-0 in overtime. This was their second consecutive loss in the semifinals, and their second playoff appearance in program history. Juniors Phoenix Ketnouvong and Chris Beston were named to the All-Tournament Team. Junior Anders Hoyem was named First Team All-Conference after making 12 assists on the season, and junior Petter Starnas earned Second Team All-Conference after scoring 10 goals and getting 21 points. Oumar Thiam was named to the All-Rookie Team, and Coach Matz was named America East Co-Coach of the Year.

The women's soccer team played in their first post season ever as they posted an 11-7-1 overall record and a 5-4 conference record under the direction of second year coach Ed Matz, also the coach for the men's team. They finished fifth in the America East and missed the conference playoffs by one league win. They played in the ECAC Championships, and lost in the tournament semifinals to the University of Pennsylvania 3-1. Senior Jen Herlihy earned Second Team All-Conference after scoring 5 goals, 5 assists, and 15 points. Tanya Mello was named to the All-Rookie Team after scoring 9 goals, 2 assists, and 20 points. Junior goaltender Shellie Parkinson had the best year of any goaltender in the program's history after she had a 10-6-1 record with a 1.04 goals-against-average and 63 saves.

The Northeastern football team, under the leadership of first year coach Don Brown, improved their overall record from last season with a 4-7 record, and posted their second straight 1-7 Atlantic-10 record. NU upset Division IA opponent UConn 35-27, while also easily defeating their non-conference foes American International and SUNY-Albany 48-7 and 63-14 respectively.

Junior running back L.J. McKanas received the New England Gold Helmet Award for being the best Division I player twice during the season. He won it during his performance in a 34-30 victory over James Madison to end the season after he ran for 172 yards and 3 touchdowns, and in the Huskies' victory over UConn when he ran for 225 yards. McKanas had 721 total yards and three touchdowns this year. Senior wide receiver Dave Klemic and junior free safety T.J. Hill earned First Team All-Conference, while senior center Kyle Porter earned Third Team All-Conference honors.

Under first year coach Ken Nichols, the volleyball team placed third in the America East after posting a 12-4 conference record, and a 19-16 overall record. The team was hampered by injuries sustained by a car accident that hurt some of the key players, but the team showed heart all season. NU lost in the conference semifinals to New Hampshire 3-0, and senior Suzana Stojakovic was named to the All-Tournament team.

Junior Kristin Deatherage, who was one of the main offensive weapons all season, earned her third straight post-season honor as she was named All-Conference. She was joined on the All-Conference team by sophomores Lindsay Wagner and Erin Spangler. Kristin Ursillo was named to the All-Rookie Team.

The field hockey team, finished 11-9 overall and had a 4-4 conference record, good for fifth. It was the first time that they missed the playoffs since they started playing in the America East. Senior Krisanne Duchemin was out for the season after tearing her MCL/ACL in her right knee, and Scottish transfers Lorna Dobbie and Catriona Semple left the team during the season, so the team had a lot of young players on the field. Coach Cheryl Murtagh felt the team learned a lot from this past season.

Sophomore Fiore D'Alize-Arrindell and junior Kelly Williams earned First Team All-Conference and Northeastern Region All-America, while Sara Webber and Leigh Shea were named to the All-Rookie Team. Arrindell scored 11 goals and had 23 points, while Williams had 7 goals and 6 assists. Sophomore Aleisha Bemis had 11 assists, while sophomore Sarah Broderick had 7 goals and 8 assists. Junior goaltender Kathleen Madaus posted a 10-8 record and had a 1.41 goals-against-average.

"I think we'll be a much better team next year, and that's without new recruits." - Nichols

THE PREDICTION

An excerpt from the NU News article, "NU Sports Broken Down" by Andy Cuneo

To all of you who have been upset with the sports teams here at Northeastern, I'm listening.

In fact, I've been listening so hard that I've decided to answer some of the questions many of you have about the hockey and basketball teams.

So with my ear pressed to the glass, I have devised the top eight questions floating around Northeastern this semester about the basketball and hockey teams.

Questions No. 1: Which team of the two teams (hockey and basketball) will be most successful in the post season?

Answer: Believe it or not, the men's basketball team. Why? Well, starters, the Huskies are playing a better brand of basketball. They've improved their record to 6-10 in the conference and could finish as high as fifth place in the America East. With a possible first round opponent being in the lower echelon of the conference, the Huskies could get into the second round.

Question No. 2: Will Rudy Keeling keep his job?

Answer: Yes. Keeling has had bad relations with some of his players. Tyrone Hammick et al, but he may have saved his job with last weekend's win over Hartford and the team's recent play. The Huskies are playing more spirited and that may have given Rudy one or two more years.

Question No. 3: Which sport is the best winter sport on campus?

Answer: Give the nod to the women's swimming and diving team. They won their second consecutive America East title. If things go the way head coach Roy Coates believes they will, it won't be their last title they get.

Question No. 4: What place will the women's hockey team finish in the ECAC?

Answer: Though fourth place is attainable, the Huskies most likely will finish in fifth because Brown has a four point advantage and the game in hand. Either way, NU will be playing the Bears in the opening round. This weekend could be a very good indication of what this team is made of.

Question No. 5: How far will the women's basketball team go?

Answer: If Willette White's program finishes in fourth, they could care some people. Though Tesha Tinsley is gone from a team that 10 years ago went to the NCAA tournament, they have a new star Melissa Kowalski while Lani Lawrence continues to play big underneath. If the Huskies stay healthy and play the way they are capable of, this team could go deep.

Question No. 6: How is it men's hockey loses to teams like Mass and Merrimack, but are competitive with Maine and New Hampshire?

Answer: Good question, glad you asked. It's hard to determine what makes this team click. They played a poor game Friday against Merrimack, then came back with a very good outing the following night at home. What makes or breaks this team is how the last 10 minutes go. Bruce Crowder is still looking for a way to get his team motivated for the 'other' games. I have no definitive answer for this question.

Question No. 7: Speaking of Crowder, how does his job look?

Answer: Very good. Crowder might get another big contract at the end of this one even though there has been little improvement in the team's record. But his players respect him and the fans love him. Plus, the attendance at Matthews Arena has doubled since he began his tenure five years ago. Not to mention the free pizza that finds its way into the Doghouse.

Question No. 8: Will we see a men's hockey title in the near future?

Answer: Not likely. Although I will say this, NU has done some cruising in the last few weeks which might add some scoring. Should the Huskies get another scorer or two, and Gilhooly continues to play out of his mind, NU could make some headway in the near future.

Q What does it all mean? Well, little unfortunately. The swimming and diving team continues to win. Maybe, it's something to build on.

2001: THE YEAR'S SPORTS IN REVIEW

Written by Andy Cuneo

Exerpts from this article appeared in the 5/23/01 issue of the NU News.

The Good:

Without any doubt, one of the super athletes Northeastern has ever seen has come from the women's track team. Nikiya Reid not only set ridiculous records, but she then proceeded to break them. She finished first 18 times in several different events. She was awarded coach Sherman Hart's team MVP and was once again named to the America East's Outstanding Performer Award for indoors and outdoors.

The men's outdoor track team won its second straight America East title earlier this month and it couldn't have done it without the amazing achievements of senior Jared Carpenter. Carpenter placed first in both the long jump and the triple jump in the America East championships help propel the Huskies to their first outdoor title in nine years.

The Bad:

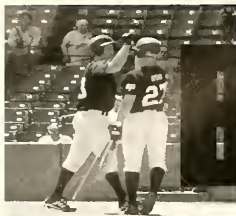

2000 had its share of unhappy moments as well that spanned the school year.

After great expectations for the baseball team, the year went down the tubes. A nice late run to make the America East playoffs was denied in Delaware as the Huskies dropped two of three lowering their final record to 19-32. Even Northeastern coach Neil McPhee explained that this team had better chances at the beginning of the year saying "we thought we might win 30 games this year." Ben Beck hit 10 homers this year and was tough on offense but he couldn't do it alone and the team ERA was 6.64.

The Ugly:

We laughed, we cried, we celebrated and were denied. The year 2001 had everything from another swimming and diving title, to the loss of a dedicated coach, to the inspirational running of Reid and Carpenter. We saw it all and though it all, we remember so much as NU marches into the 2001-2002 with the first football game in September.

UNIVERSITY CHEERLEADERS

A LOOK AHEAD TO THE FUTURE

This article appeared in the May 16th issue of the NU News by Aaron Michlewitz

It's been a fun roller coaster ride these past five years at Northeastern. Meeting new people and having new experiences has been something that I will cherish for the rest of my life. But when I look back on my college years one thing that will stick out in my mind has been the opportunity to write this column. Whether you have agreed or disagreed with what was written here, the chance to voice my opinion and get feed back on it was more valuable than any journalism class I took.

But before I accept that diploma on the FleetCenter stage next month, I want to give my final thoughts on what I would like to see from Northeastern athletics within the next 10 years. Some of these ideas will come as no surprise:

1) Departure from America East

Back in 1996, when I was a freshman, the America East was a conference on the rise and Northeastern looked like it would be a big part of that growing trend. Now in 2001, things couldn't be worse. With Delaware and company bolting for the Colonial Athletic Association next season, the America East has become one of the weakest conferences in the country. The only solution for Northeastern is to take its sister school, Boston University, and find somewhere else to call home. While it might be tough to find another conference with such close proximity, NU and BU's potential is head and shoulders above the rest of the remaining schools in the conference and shouldn't go unused.

2) Football Stadium

Whether it is on Columbus Avenue, on the Wentworth campus or anywhere, we need a new football stadium and we need it now. Parsons Field is cute and the news that it might get a new, state-of-the-art artificial grass is encouraging, but it isn't a collegiate stadium, and that has held back recruiting for years. A new 25,000 seat football stadium would allow Northeastern to follow in the footsteps of Connecticut and jump to the I-A division, where the real money is for athletics.

3) Keeping Ian McCaw

Even though at times I have disagreed with some of his methods, McCaw has done a solid job as the school's athletics director over the last four years. His coaching choices have been a success so far and I'm sure picking Ron Everhart as the next men's basketball coach will be another winning selection. Along with coach Bruce Crowder, McCaw has helped turn hockey games at Matthews Arena into a event, even if the team continues to struggle under the .500 mark.

4) Moving basketball into Matthews

The Rudy Keeling Era never did allow the men's program to get good enough to warrant a move to St. Botolph Street. However, just like the situation at Parsons, recruits never want to play in a venue that isn't even as nice as their high school gym and that is what Solomon Court is. People who were around during the 1980s say that even in the days of Reggie Lewis, Northeastern could not fill Matthews. Well, back then NU was a commuter school with very little school spirit. Today it is in transition and is on its way to building a large sports community on campus that is looking for a basketball team to root for. Hopefully, NU will provide that.

5) Honoring Jack Grinold

Even though he once called a column I wrote, "The worst thing that has been written in the Northeastern News in my 40 years," there isn't anyone at Northeastern I respect more than our director of Sports Information. With rumors that his retirement is close, any new football stadium that is built should aptly be named Grinold Stadium. Also, if he does retire in the near future, here's hoping Adam Polgreen gets the job for all his hard work in the past half decade.

6) The Return of BU sports

Everyone gets a laugh out of chanting, "We have football" at hockey games, but the fact is that without BU we have no rivals in football or baseball. My freshman and sophomore year, the one game I wouldn't miss during the football season was the Canine Classic, and there has been a void ever since John Silber eliminated football at Nickerson Field. As the phrase goes, you're only as good as your rival, and right now we have no rival.

Out of the six items, if three are done in the next 10 years, I'll be happy with the progress NU athletics is taking. However, as I've learned over the last five years, don't expect anything.

Finally, it was a pleasure to write this column over the last three years. Some of those in the athletics department have felt that I've been too negative at times, but that might have been because I believe that Northeastern can do much better in the athletic field than it has done over the last decade. If you ask anyone on the men's basketball team, a team I covered and watched go 27-58 over the last three years, there wasn't anyone more happy than I when the team won.

I want to thank all those at NU that have helped me and I wish them all luck.

I'll leave with a quote from Dick Schapp:

"Sincerity is the key to success in life... And if you can pull that off, you're going to go far."

SGA has given me the opportunity to meet people of every major from every area of the university. Last year, I was a freshman in the College of Business Administration and saw the same students in my classes day in and day out; if it wasn't for SGA, I would not have had many chances to interact with students from other colleges within the university.

Beside making friends and meeting people from other student groups, SGA is also a tool in making my opinions count for change at Northeastern. I remember heated Senate meetings over issues like the bag-check at Northeastern and the quarter-semester change and how much it meant to have administrators come to Senate so that we could personally address every concern that affected students. I have great respect for the administrators we hosted; their presence made it apparent that Northeastern truly is a student-centered university.

Currently I serve as a Vice President for Administration and one of my jobs is to promote the organizations. I couldn't be happier telling students about the fun and intelligent people they will meet as well as the presentation and professional skills they will acquire. I've had a great time, learned a great deal and look forward to gaining more from my experience.

Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council serves as the representative body for all the sororities that are present on Northeastern's campus. It stands for good scholarships, for guarding of good health, for maintenance of fine standards and for serving our college community. Panhellenic helps to establish positive relationships between the five sororities and allows the opportunity for mutual planning to take place.

Sororities' recruitment for fall of 2000 was the biggest yet for Northeastern. Over 100 women decided to join a sorority and there were many events planned by Panhellenic to introduce the women to sorority life. "Letters and Leis" was a barbecue in the Quad and allowed prospective new members to mingle with sisters and get more information. Other events planned for the year are Greek Follies, a charity ball and the best week of the year, Greek Week.

Delta Phi Epsilon

On March 17, 1917 five women at New York University Law School took a pledge of sisterhood and loyalty and so founded the Alpha chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon, the first non-secretarial, social sorority and the only one found at a professional school. Five years later, on March 17, 1922, Delta Phi Epsilon worked to develop a social conscience and a willingness to think in terms of the common good in order to assure for its members continuous development and achievement in the collegiate and fraternity world. With a continuing philosophy of faith in the inherent good judgement of undergraduate membership, Delta Phi Epsilon has remained steadfast throughout its history, forward to the continued growth of a sisterhood which keeps pace with the ever changing nature of the collegiate world.

The university has recognized Northeastern University's Phi Eta Chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon for 32 years, making it the oldest sorority on NU's campus. Sisters experience many annual activities throughout their sisterhood experience, which begins the moment they receive a bid and remains for a lifetime. Included in these campus events are trips to museums, presenting speakers to the entire student body, educational programs such as eating disorder education, yoga, self defense classes, Friends nights, sisterhood retreats, formals, date parties, holiday parties, socials, and community service projects. It is through these activities that the sister has recently earned such distinctions as Sorority of the Year, Phoenix Award for Organizational Excellence, Sorority Women of the Year, Outstanding Alumnae Programming, and President of the Year.

"To be rather than to seem to be." At my very first recruitment event I was informed about this motto that the women of Delta Phi Epsilon followed. During that hour and a half, I had no idea that these women would change my life and help me to grow and become the woman I am today. Without those women, I would not be on my way to becoming a registered nurse.

During my middle year of school, I had the opportunity to go to Wichita, Kansas, for one of my cooperative education experiences. Despite the stereotypes of being known for tornadoes and the Wizard of Oz, I had the time of my life. I met the greatest people and was convinced that I wanted to stay in Kansas. Before I returned to Boston to move out of my apartment, I had already enrolled in a College in Kansas. When I returned to Boston, my sisters told me they were having a welcome back party for me. Since I had only told one of the sisters, I figured I would let them all know that I would not be returning to Northeastern at the party.

When I arrived at the party, it was nothing I expected. Instead of beer and music, I was faced with a room full of my sisters, each with reasons why I should stay in Boston. They made me feel so important in their lives and we all cried. Needless to say, I stayed at Northeastern University, and I am now graduating. It is the love and encouragement of these women that has helped me through long hard classes. It is the advice from these women who helped me through tough situations such as my mother being hospitalized. It is the unconditional support of these women that has earned us honors such as Sorority of the Year and myself as Chapter President of the Year. It is the warm heartedness of these women who convinced me that I do matter in their lives and to stay at Northeastern University. These women of Delta Phi Epsilon truly live their motto, "to be rather than to seem to be."

Sigma Sigma Sigma

The triumphant journey began a little over a century ago. The year was 1898 and the place was Farmville, Virginia. On April 20th, eight young women gathered on the grounds of Longwood College and changed the course of history forever. On this day, eight women united to form a circle of friendship they called Tri Sigma. Faith, hope, and love were the foundations to which their sisterhood would stand and continue to grow for years. Many were soon to follow: intrigued by their sisterhood gave themselves and felt compelled to live by. They were eight women who upon first glance were as different as night and day, and yet when they pulled together, they were one of the same.

Over the course of time, we have grown from a circle of eight into a sisterhood of over 70,000. We have spread from the campus of Longwood College to hundreds of colleges and universities around the globe. We have dedicated and prided ourselves on making the world a better place by volunteering for projects such as Rosie's Place, The Boston Food Bank, the AIDS Action Committee and the Walk For Hunger. Our philanthropy "Sigma Serves Children" is extremely important to us and we have on many occasions been nationally recognized for our efforts in helping hospitalized children. Our annual a teeter-totter-athon is held in the quad for 48 hours straight: rain or shine, sleet or snow. We go out to that quad as a team and because of this, we are successful beyond our expectations.

From our philanthropy, to your community service, to our unending circle of friendship, our name has been well received and shall continue to be heard. The friendships created in the past have sparked the friendships of today, and those of today will only grow to strengthen those of tomorrow.

Who are the sisters of tomorrow? No one can know for sure. Those who stand ahead of us stand the chance of learning from the past. They will be a dynamic group of women, each capable of maintaining faith, having hope and providing love. They will continue to expand on our ideals of combining a good work ethic with a good time. They will continue to use the tradition of the past and perhaps create a few of their own.

"Each of you has left a footprint on my soul and filled my heart with faith, hope and love. You will always be with me in spirit and memory no matter how far we are from one another. I love you xoxo!" ~Christine

"Thank you Sigma for making my last years in college so amazing. You have shown me what real, true friendships are all about."

Kappa Sigma

On May 10, 1992 the Northeastern Colony of Kappa Sigma was formed. Creating new standards at Northeastern, they were able to create a unique diversity for Northeastern's campus.

March 4, 1995 this Northeastern Colony was initiated and received their charter designated as Xi-Beta. The men who founded this chapter sacrificed their time and efforts to create diligence and commitment where none had previously existed.

In our 6th year at Northeastern, we look forward to future development of eternal friendships and scholarly achievement.

Beta Gamma Epsilon Fraternity is Northeastern's oldest fraternity, founded in 1919. We were founded as an all-engineering fraternity, and have continued to uphold that entrance standard.

We currently reside in a five story brownstone house at 234 Commonwealth Ave. We are always involved in NU activities such as Homecoming, the Interfraternity Council, Greek Council, Greek Week, leadership retreats, and many other school oriented activities. For Homecoming 2000 our float took 1st place. Overall, we strive to provide a productive environment for fellow Northeastern engineers.

Alpha Epsilon Phi

Northeastern University's Phi Omega Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Phi has been doing a lot of service within the community, the school, and our own chapter itself. The past spring, two of our sisters, Kerry Clarke and Amy Lorenzo, participated in the Avon 3-Day Breast Cancer Walk. With the help of our chapter, over $8000 was raised to help support the search for a cure for this disease. Also in the spring, Jessica Ferguson was recognized as New Member of the Year, by Northeastern University. Although we are currently a small chapter, we continue to grow as a whole. Our new pledge class of 18 is keeping us busy this fall, and we are looking forward to another large recruitment this coming spring.

The Gamma Phi Kappa Fraternity has been an independent local fraternity at Northeastern University since February 17, 1925, with over 75 years of heritage and tradition. We are one of five local fraternities at Northeastern and continue to participate and thrive throughout the Greek Community.

Gamma Phi Kappa also has extremely large and supportive alumni that make up one of the strongest Alumni Association out of all student organizations. They continue to actively participate with the undergraduate fraternity brothers on a daily basis to help ensure stability within the fraternity.

Gamma Phi Kappa believes in the integrity of all men and tries to instill the values and skills that are necessary in the lives of every fraternity pledge and brother. We believe that by doing this, we will make each Northeastern students who pledges our fraternity a better man and more prepared for their future.

Gamma Phi Kappa is the closest fraternity to Northeastern University's campus located just seconds past the Museum of Fine Arts. We are always looking for responsible students to share our history and become part of our fraternity. For more information please feel free to contact us at (617)-427-9384.

Theta Delta Chi

In 1989, 11 men of Northeastern University pledged a fraternity in the beliefs that they would join an organization to better themselves as well as their community.

During this pledge period, these men were hazed severely. On the night which they were going to be initiated into this Fraternity, the 11 men walked out on their pledge master, telling him that they would not take this abuse anymore and decided to, instead, create their own fraternity. After months of searching around for the correct National organization to call their own, these men found Theta Delta Chi National Fraternity. They read over the National's ideals and goals and decided that Theta Delta Chi was the Fraternity for them.

Founded on friendship, and supported by mutual esteem and dependence, these men began the Delta Triton Colony of Theta Delta Chi in 1989. At Theta Delta Chi's 143rd National Convention in Chicago in 1990, these men met all the requirements of a colony and were granted a charter at Northeastern.

The Delta Triton charge of Theta Delta Chi at Northeastern was founded on non-hazing and lives up to that standard. Though the fraternity that initially hazed these courageous individuals has disbanded at Northeastern University, our organization stands in remembrance of such a horrid display.

Now, as we enter the new age of the Greek System across the country, Delta Triton still remains on top of the system. Our charge, only ten years of age, has won our National Award of Best Charge, the Victory Cup, twice in our young existence. Delta Triton has also won the Fraternity of Year award at Northeastern twice, the last time being in 1999. Members of Theta Delta Chi have held several executive board positions on both the Inter Fraternity Council and Greek Council.

Delta Triton is made up of many individuals who, though different in almost every aspect, share the same goals and aspirations of making the college experience the best opportunity of their adult lives. Each member prides himself in participating in other organizations or groups outside of the fraternity, but hold Theta Delta Chi as a life long commitment, which they will always serve just as the organization will always serve them.

African Students Organization

N.A.S.O was founded with the aim of providing a forum within which African Students in Northeastern University can come together and socialize, exchange information, and work together, in short to provide an environment that fosters brotherhood among African Students.

"Believing in Excellence, Striving for Success" Founded in 1974

Black Engineering Student Association

The Black Engineering Student Society is known to the dwellers of our campus as BESS. With this prestigious name we carry many years of powerful history and honor. A motto that stands forth beyond any other: "Believing, Excelling, Striving for Success".

BESS was started on the campus of Northeastern University on April 18, 1974 by two black engineering students. These two students were sitting in the African-American Institute during the winter of 1974 having a discussion that touched on a wide array of topics. Every where from class, campus activities to sports, when they reflected on how few other black engineering students they knew.

Although there were a large number of black students studying engineering at Northeastern University, they were by and large spread out throughout the six disciplines, and the various divisions at N.U. It finally came out that there was no real way for the majority of them to come together, unless they were in the same classes. The point was a good way to attack engineering. In this spirit, letters were sent to all the minority engineering students whose names and addresses were available.

On the great day of April 18, 1974 their idea became a reality. The main purpose of BESS was and still is, to bring minority engineering students together in order to enable them to share their knowledge and experiences. In April of 1975 we merged to be one of the chartered chapters of the National Society of Black Engineers.

Finance & Investment Club

Purpose of the Finance and Investments Club:

Students can develop better public understanding and appreciation of the financial industry. Club promotes and extends friendly and business relationships between students, faculty and various businessmen. Club develops sound thinking in finance theory and more exact knowledge of principles. You never know what you might learn from various speakers that usually come from the "real" (not educational) business world. The FIC invites everyone so that every NU student has a chance to meet our respected speakers.

Northeastern News

Since its founding in 1926, the campus newspaper has won many regional and national awards and has become one of the main staples in campus life at NU. It is the most frequently published and most widely read publication on campus. The News is free and 10,000 copies of the News are distributed throughout the entire campus and surrounding community each week.

The paper, produced solely by students, has turned out many professional journalists including Jack Driscoll, former editor of The Boston Globe, Arthur Cooper, editor of GQ magazine, and Nat Hentoff, columnist for the Village Voice and The Washington Post.

The paper is published every Wednesday and is comprised of four sections, News, Editorial, Style, and Sports. The largest section, News, offers complete coverage of campus events and issues. Editorial contains opinions and editorials written by students, faculty, and the News Staff. The Style section runs reviews and feature stories on the latest trends that interest college students while the Sports section covers every team sport at NU.

The News offers services many other college newspapers don't have. The News is one of the very few college newspapers in the country that has a full-page of comics drawn solely by students. For sports fans the News publishes complete scores and standings of every team.

The first issue of the academic year is celebrated with full color and an additional section called BostoNU. BostoNU gives new students the complete run down on what's hot on campus and in the city. The last paper of the academic year is also in full color.

On the first Monday of every February the Sports staff of The Northeastern News puts out the annual Beanpot Edition which covers every aspect of Boston's unique Beanpot Hockey tournament.

The staff also works to integrate recognition of holidays into coverage, such as stories about dating for Valentine's Day and stories on shopping for Christmas and holidays celebrated by many of the university's minority student populations.

An advertising spot in the News is the best way to reach the Northeastern community, and has been the desired route of many large corporations such as Calvin Klein, Estee Lauder, and the Coca-Cola Company. If you would like your business represented in our newspaper or online, please call us at (617) 373-4343. We look forward to hearing from you.

One of the newest clubs on campus, Circle K is definitely one of the most involved, too! Started in 1995, Circle K has grown to over 40 members who are all dedicated to the goals of Circle K: Service, Leadership and Friendship. Circle K is an international organization founded by Kiwanis International. There are Circle K club in over 15 countries with over 10,000 members worldwide. Northeastern's Circle K is a member of the New England District of Circle K International.

Activities involved in: Every year Circle K expands doing more and more service projects, including: City Year Serve-a-thon, NU Service Day, PB Jam, Hawthorne Tutoring, BASIC, SHINE, and various other programs in and around Northeastern. Along with service projects, Circle K also attends conventions and leadership training programs. Each year, NU Circle K commits to completing over 2,100 service hours and raising $2200 for KPTI (Kiwani's Pediatric Trauma Institute) and IDD (Iodine Deficiency Disorder).

Campus Crusade for Christ

Mission:

As a group, Campus Crusade for Christ at Northeastern University strives to love the Lord our God with all of our heart, soul, mind, and strength and to love our neighbor as ourselves. We do this by: sharing the gospel of Jesus Christ in a relevant way to Northeastern students, providing a place for Christians at Northeastern to grow through prayer, worship, and the study of scripture, developing a strong community of Northeastern Christians who are committed to each other, being involved in fellowship with other Christians at Northeastern and Boston wide, and encouraging individuals to reach out beyond the campus during vacations and co-ops.

The International Student Forum was conceived in 1968 to fulfill the wishes of the growing international community for a non-profit group committed to their needs.

The objective of I.S.F. is to enhance the image of the international community on campus and among the student body; to unite the students of varied cultural backgrounds to form a homogenous and peaceful student community; to promote communication and to understand cultural differences among the international and American students through the channels of providing social, educational and cultural activities.

Currently, I.S.F. consists of a wide variety of international students and is open to all Northeastern University students regardless of race, color, religion, belief, sex, marital status, age and/or national origin. Some of I.S.F.'s events consist of camping in New Hampshire, Thanksgiving dinner, Ski Weekend, Concerts, Monthly Dinner, International Week, and some co-sponsor events such as Fete de Halloween and the International Fling. The International Student Forum, a special interest club, is located in 232B Curry Student Center.

New & Unexpected

This year has seen strides, setbacks for NU

By Bruno Matarazzo Jr.
NU News Staff

The Northeastern community saw the front page photos and headlines in The Boston Globe and saw history occur before its eyes as student protesters marched down Huntington Avenue.

We shed tears for the loss of an icon when Chicken Lou died unexpectedly in early fall and we slammed our fists onto the table after hearing about the Student Government Association.

And we vented in frustration to wait in line for President Clinton's visit in January.

Looking back at the events that have made headlines at Northeastern during the past year, it's astonishing that the NU community was able to make it out in one piece.

Chicken Lou. He was simply known as "Lou." The friendly and lovable owner of the fast-food eatery on Forsyth Street died Sept. 12 and shocked the Northeastern community. Faculty, staff and students could always recognize Lou Ferretti by the Northeastern baseball cap he wore everyday and his baritone voice that bellowed across West Village.

"Lou was like a member of our family," said Lucy Williams, a law school professor. "He knew how you took your coffee, what kind of dressing you wanted on your salad. He made sure you knew you were special in his eyes."

Northeastern folk recognize the loss of Lou every time we enter and order the usual "number one" or a "chicken cordon-Lou" and see his son and daughter running the restaurant and remember the fond memories Lou had in our lives.

Admissions fiasco. The actual reason of how Northeastern mistakenly admitted more than 700 extra students in this year's freshman class that went over the 2,800 limit is still being debated.

The university alleges that the university's attractiveness caused a higher yield rate, the number of students accepted who are projected to enroll. But former director of admissions Alan Kines said that the university expedited financial aid requests for academically low-profile students, which may have caused the enrollment of 700 extra students.

But whatever the actual reason for the over enrollments is, the affects have had a significant impact on housing, class sizes and classroom sizes.

Clinton visit. It was a last minute surprise that left hundreds of students out in the cold. Former President Clinton visited Northeastern as part of a nationwide farewell tour for his past eight years in office.

In the standing-room-only crowd in Matthews Arena, Clinton thanked Boston and the Commonwealth for their support.

"In election after election, in good times and bad, the one place that I knew would always be there to stick with Bill Clinton and Al Gore on the direction we were taking America was Boston and the state of Massachusetts," Clinton said in explaining why he chose to visit Boston.

SGA ... SGA ... SGA. In the fall, two of the six Student Government Association vice presidents resigned. Marcelo Arantes left the vice president of financial affairs position, saying the organization was "unprofessional." John Sullivan, the current vice president of financial affairs, called Vanessa Vernon, the former vice president of student services, "a weak link" after she resigned.

An investigation by The News in February uncovered irregularities with the SGA senator nomination process. The previous year's forms, which are the only physical proof that those who voted in last year's elections were senators, were "thrown out." And 27 of the 31 forms from this year contained illegible handwriting or were missing information.

Suzanne Cray, the former executive vice president, resigned after The News ran a story outlining how she was in an area designated for those 21 and older on the Winter Weekend cruise. Cray, who was 20 at the time, was the third of the original six executive board members to resign.

Kerryann Driscoll, the SGA president, outlined how executive board members circumvent the housing lottery, obtain unlimited meal tickets and are "only accountable to ourselves for maintaining our [office] hours," in response to a survey by a national magazine.

African-American Institute. It was something that Northeastern students deemed impossible, an action more common for active university's such as Harvard or Brown, but on a bright May afternoon, hundreds of Northeastern students took to the streets to protest President Freeland's decision to raze the current John D. O'Bryant African-American Institute with another non-free-standing building at the same location.

Students chased after President Freeland's car, angry that he had not personally addressed the students and made a quick exit after the meeting conclusion. The chase after Freeland's car ended up as a march down Huntington Avenue to Massachusetts Avenue where students blocked up traffic for hours during the evening commute.

The protest was part of a 39-day long occupation of the Institute that African-American students held in protest of the President's plan to tear down the Institute.

After the O'Bryant family expressed approval over Freeland's new plan for the Institute, protest organizers decided to end the occupation and create a new organization dedicated to ensuring that "the issues surrounding the Institute don't die on the table."

Nathaniel Fredman of The News staff contributed to this report.

Yup, we are definitely brothers

The Fam

Chillin on the porch with the brethren

Well oh well five years has gone by so quickly and I didn't even realize how much fun it was until now. But it is not to say that I have any regrets, for many wonderful people have come into my life and I have experienced and grown more than I could ever had hoped. So, I leave with a feeling of uncertainty, excitement and hope for the future. Special thanks to Mom & Dad for helping me through it all, Kevin & Shelly for helping me to stay grounded both professionally and socially, Captain Faigel - for so many good times and experiences, for being the best friend I could ever hope for and understanding even when times got tough - Thanks brethren. Dewey, Deacon, Fingo, Bootsy, Ian, Marco, Shane, I'm gonna miss all those times just hanging out! But I won't disappear, for these are the friends you keep forever. With that said, farewell and the best of luck to you all...

And so this was my life in college...

Katie & Micayla

for ANGELA BETH CARRINGTON (MIGNON)

At times, life's path seems filled with things that make the going rough, and we wish there were a smoother road, for we've had enough. But, if we pause a moment and remember who's in charge the hills that loom ahead of us no longer seem so large, and every rock before us, when we know we're no alone, becomes not just a stumbling block but one more stepping stone.

You've overcome so many things, and every time you've grown through sheer determination and the wisdom you've shown. So as you face this journey, from the moment you begin, you'll always hold your head up high and have the strength to win.

Love from your Dad

Cindy Rose Cochran,

Life's circumstances are not always what you might wish them to be. The pattern of life does not necessarily go as you plan but let nothing hold you back from exploring your dreams, wishes and aspirations. Wishes and hopes are nothing unless you take the first step, walk your path one step at a time with courage, faith and determination. Dare to dream because only by dreaming will you discover who you are, what you want and what you can do. Don't be afraid to dream big, and do whatever it takes to make your dreams come true. Always believe in miracles and always believe in yourself.

What a special time this is for you, you deserve every happy moment. We are so proud of you. A daughter makes life bloom with smiles.

*Love,
Mom and Dad*
